The knocking at the door of the house occupied by Charles von Kleist, in Brooklyn, was not peremp-tory, nor yet did it savor of stealthiness. During the silence which followed, the two men on the doorstep looked at each other inquiringly.

fap-tap-tap, they knocked again. Slowly, silently, the door swung open and, from the inner recesses of a pitch-black hall, came a voice which nquired, in guttural German: Who are you, and what do you want?" "We come from the Wolf." was the reply. "He said that you would know what we wanted." "From the Wolf?" echoed the voice from within, "How do I know that you are not wolves yourselves? How

"This'll prove who we are," interrupted the man who had previously spoken, producing a card and slipping it past the stout chain which guarded the door. "Read and act," he contin ued, still in German

A moment later the chain had been removed and the two men, their coat collars turned high, their hats pulled low, entered the darkened hall. until the old man had refustened the door and preceded them into a room where the tightly closed shutters effectually prevented any spying from the outside, did he again address them. When he did speak, it was merely to inquire their names

"Barnitz," replied one of the men the one who had carried on the conversation from the outside.

"Barth," said the other. "Barnitz," the old man repeated ru-minatively. "That is a name of the Fatherland, a good name. But Barth?

I know it not. Is it not English?"
"American," corrected the first of the strangers. "It would not do to use too many of our citizens in this plan, It would cause suspicion. We must use all kinds of people—that's how we fool these Yankees! Besides, should you doubt, there is the eard from the Wolf. That hears both names." "That is so;" agreed the German,

"and Von Izel is not one to take any chances. He is too close to Von Papen. For what were you sent here?"

"The Wolf wishes to be assured that everything is going smoothly.

Then, after a moment's hesitation, during which he studied Von Kleist's fare very carefully: "Have you com-pleted the hombs?"

"A few only, It will be simple to make the others. Come, I will show you." Through the winding, labyrinthine passages of the old house the German led them, and then out into the buck yard-a tiny plot of ground barely a few feet square.

"As you will note," he said, "we cannot be overlooked from any of the surrounding houses.

For a time after this the silence before dawn, were thick enough to be more restless than ever, and we knew that something we could neither see nor hear must be going on. After a while I asked the question that had been worrying me ever since I had heard the wagon wheels.

What did they bring up in that wagon, Daddy-a Gatting?"

"The Lord only knows, Stannie-and he won't tell." was the old prospector's reply, made with no touch of irreverence: and the words were scarcely out struck the shutthouse.

us couldn't be compared to anything milder than thunder and lightning. There was a flash, a rending, ripping roar as if the solid earth were splitting in two, and the air was filled with say, but the acrid, choking gas which filled the shafthouse could scarcely be called air.

"Dynamite-that's what they fetched in that wagon!" gurgled the old man , and I could have shouted for joy at the mere sound of his voice, since it was an assurance that he hadn't been killed outright.

"It's only a question of a little time, now, Daddy," I prophesion. "What you said vesterday—that Bullerton would try to get possesser without destroying the property-no longer holds good. He has evidently decided that we've got to be ousted, even at the expense of building a new shafthouse' and installing new machinery Why has he changed his mind, when he knows that he could starve us out in a few days?"
"I been thinkin' about that, right if somethin's in the wind—somethin' we don't know about."

"Then there's another thing," I put in. "Supposing, just for the sake of argument, thet our first guess was right; that he did take Jeunie to Angels three dest ago and that they were married thers. You know your daughter, Daddy, and I know her, a little. Nobody but an idlot would sun pose that she'd live with Bullerten as his wife for a single minute if he makes himself your murderer.

> It may be a dastardly confession of weakness to admit it, but I am free to say that the prolonged struggle was gradually undermining my nerve. Bullerton had made up his mind to write off the loss of the mine buildings and machinery, it was a battle lost for us. It could be only a question of a little time, and enough daylight to enable the bombers to throw straight, of the shafthouse and hoist-and with the privilege of dying in a good, old-fashkened, stand-up fight. All of this I hastly pointed out to Daddy Hiram, adding that, for Jeanie's If for no better reason, he ought to take his chance of staying upon earth. As long as I live I shall always have a high respect for the wrath of a mild-mannered man. "No, sir; I done promised your he paid me money for doin' it. When they're goin' to dig a hole somewhere a figure of speech. The thing that hit and bury me afterward," was all I could get out of him.

> We were not given very much more time for discussion, or for anything else. The first faint graying dawn was necks-like a double-headed turtle peering out of its shell-and got a glimpse of the damage done by the inany trouble: a great hole, torn in the etiron roof directly over the hoist and shaft mouth. Knowing the use and effect of explosives pretty well, Duddy said that the bomb had gone off prematurely; had exploded before it had fairly lighted upon the roof,

FINE BODY OF MEN AND BOYS BNJOY EVENING TOGETHER.

Col. Gansser Gave Fine Address Boy Scout Council Organized.

One of the finest gatherings ever held in Grayling was that of the Fathers and Sons banquet that was given in the banquet room of the Michelson Memorial church last Tuesday. Two hundred and seventy men find boys sat down to a fine dinner at about 6:30 o'clock. This was given by the Womans club, assisted by the ladies of most of our other civic and fraternal ladies organizations of the city.

This was the largest gathering that had ever sat down to a dinner in this popular banquet room. Those who did not have sons of their own were provided with a boy and every one seemed to enjoy the privilege immensely. There were some dads and some sons who had probably not spent a social affair together in many years. And the fellow who was deprived of being present with a son of his own, delighted in the companion-ship of the son of some other man. The dinner was specially appetizing and delightfully served by young ladies.

Invocation was offered by Fr. Bos ler. During the dinner music was furnished by Schram's orchestra and liberally apfree for the occasion.

At the speakers table were scated

Many requests are received for information rangement of such buildings. To meet this demand the department has drawn up plans for dairy houses of various sizes which can be constructed economically. Copies of the plans will be sent free to those applying for

For a person who is striving to improve the quality of his products a practical, inexpensive type of dairy house, such as that planned by the department, is an absolute necessity. Milk that is poured or strained in the barn, or allowed to stand there, is Hable to be contaminated by bacteria and to absorb stable odors. As soon as the cow's milk is drawn it should be carried to the dairy house, to be cooled immediately to 50 degrees F. or lower. An up-to-date sanitary dalry house is provided with all the facilities for cooling milk in the most economi cal manner.

For convenience the dairy house should be near the barn, yet so far t that no barn odors can detected in the house, and should beon well-drained land that slopes from the house.

The principal purpose in building a dairy house is to provide a place where dairy products may be handled spart from anything else. To carry out this idea, it is necessary to divide the interior of the building so that the utensils do not have to be washed in

One of the tires shown above is the famous 30 x 3 1/2 inch Goodyear All-Weather Tread Clincher. By long wear, superior traction and freedom from skidding, and low final cost, this tire has won unquestioned leadership in its field.

Alongside it is illustrated its companion, the 30 x 31/2 inch Goodyear Cross Rib.

Both these tires are built in a factory devoted exclusively to manufacturing Goodyear Tires for More than 5,000,000 of the Goodyear non-skid tires have been sold in the last five years.

Built of the same high grade Egyptian cotton fabric that goes into the All-Weather Tread Goodvear, with a long-wearing but differently designed tread, they have given remarkable service.

Their quality and serviceability have proved to thousands of car owners the folly of buying unknown and unguaranteed tires of lower price. Ask your Goodyear Service Station Dealer to explain their advantages.

PREVENTIVE MEDICINE.

The tendency of medical science toward preventive measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pheumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the recep-tion and development of the pneumonin germ. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.
